MANILA PENINSULA SIEGE

CHR: Arrest of newsmen illegal

By Jocelyn R. Uy

WARNING AGAINST MEDIA REPRESSION, the Commission on Human Rights (CHR) yesterday denounced the arrest by the police of the rights of journalists by arbitrarily arresting and handcuffing them during their coverage of the military rebels' takeover of the Peninsula Manila hotel last year.

The CHR recommended the formal investigation of the police officials involved prior to the possible filing of criminal and administrative charges against them.

In a 28-page resolution, the CHR ruled that the police had violated the journalists' rights to liberty, security of person and freedom from arbitrary arrest when they were arrested and herded to Camp Baging Downs following the Nov. 29 siege.

"The detainees support a total lack of respect for or denial of freedom of the press. However, the Commission warns that acts to detain members of the media without clear legal basis flagrantly stand outside the boundaries between valid police power and media repression in violation of fundamental freedoms," according to the CHR resolution referred to the media.

Senate given say in drafting new peace pact

By Gil C. Cabasaguan Jr.

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-ARROYO has agreed to give the Senate a direct hand in the drafting of a new peace accord with Moro rebels after the memorandum of agreement (MOA) on ancestral domains got then down for lack of consultation with a broad sector.

Sen. Miriam Defensor Santiago yesterday said that she discussed with Mr. Arroyo constitutional issues arising from the MOA and the Japan-Philippines Economic Partnership Agreement (JPEPA).

Davao bus blast kills 6

PNP eyes extortion gang linked to Abus

A MUSLIM BOY prays in front of his home in the ground, expressing complete submission and humility before Allah, at the start of Ramadan, at the Golden Mosque in Manila on Monday. Ramadan is the sixth and holiest month of the Islamic year observed with dawn-to-dusk fasting, prayers and abstinence.

By Orlando Dizon and Allan Naval

DIGOS CITY—THE IMPROVISED explosive device appeared to have the signature of an extortion gang suspected to have links with the dreaded Abu Sayyaf bandit group.

Based on an overhead baggage compartment and recently destroyed by a mobile phone, the device packed with nails ripped through a passenger bus at the public terminal here at 2:45 p.m. yesterday, killing at least six people and wounding 30 others, police said.

Most of the casualties suffered head wounds from the blast that nearly tore off the roof and shattered windows of the vehicle owned by Metro Shuttle Bus Co. and Senior Sgt. Genito Daraman, Davao del Sur police chief.

No one has claimed responsibility for the bombing as the Muslim world observed the first day of the holy fasting month of Ramadan, but Daraman suspected that the extortion gang of Khobar was behind the attack.

Al-Khobar has been blamed for dozens of attacks on bus companies plying southern and central Mindanao. It is said to be an ally of the Abu Sayyaf, which is being linked to the in-

MUSLIMS PRAYED AT YESTERDAY'S start of the holy fasting month of Ramadan for Allah's intervention to end violence in Mindanao.

Mohamedan, Minkahar, president of the 300-member Tarbawi Muslim Association, said he was saddened by the recent outbreak of fighting between government troops and fighters of the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF).

"We are asking Allah for an end of the war there in Mindanao. We are sure that he would listen to our prayers and place us people are living here because of this war," Minkahar said.

Hurricane Gustav churns toward New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS—HURRICANE GUSTAV changed toward the largely deserted coast of Louisiana early Monday, but appeared destined to make landfall in the west of a city that was still recovering three years after Katrina's devastating blow.

These were the darkest days of warnings to get out of the Gulf of Mexico and hotel rooms thousands of kilometers away, praying the powerful Category 3 storm and its 124-kph (115-mph) winds would pass without the same deadly toll.

"We're nervous, but we just have to keep trusting in God that we don't get the worst again," said Lyndon Guidry, who he, the road for Florida just a few months after he was able to return to his home in New Orleans. "We just have to get our faith in God."

The federal meteorology of Katrina, a Category 5 storm that flooded 60 percent of New Orleans and killed more than 1,800 along the Gulf Coast, led officials to aggressively insist everyone in Gustav's path to flee from shore. As the storm neared, the streets of the city were empty—save for National

Greatness of spirit runs in this family from India

By Ms. Carol R. Doy

GREATNESS OF SPIRIT COULD RUN IN the family and whoever said that seedlings cannot thrive in the shadow of the huge parent tree could be proven wrong.

Herbert and wife Prakash and their children of India, both doctors, are proof that the greatness of one's parents could live on, not necessarily by some wonder of genetics, but because noble examples set by one generation can flourish and bear fruit in the next.

The couple earned this year's Ramon Magsaysay award for Community Leadership, the latest of many honors received in their home country and abroad. Their portraits, for example, have appeared on a Red Cross postage stamp issued by Mexico.

Prakash's late father, Marudhai Arasu, was also a "RAM" awardee (Public Service, 1983). A humanitarian and follower of Mahatma Gandhi, "Baba" (father), died early this year at the age of 96. Books have been written and a film has been made on Marudhai's work caring for leprosy.

Along with brother Wilas, Prakash grew up in Annamalai in the Indian state of Maharashtra, in an ashram (a spiritual community) and a rehabilitation center for leprosy patients founded by his father. "We went to school and played with the children of the (leprosy) community," Prakash recalls.

OUT OF 100,000 cases filed in the country's highest court, the Court of Appeals, only 100 cases are directly involved in the allegations of bribery in connection with a case of Manila Electric Co. (Mercon) filed in the court.

The suspension is a necessary step for the court to be able to hear cases where justice has been done to the public.

Justice said at least a month after the first public declaration of bribery by Court of Appeals Justice Antonio Carpio, the issue has been raised to secondary importance in the case.

Self cycle

"The journalism cycle is such, but the cycle of corruption in the judiciary that the media have reported is more and more alarming. The report on improper influence in the judiciary has been reported as an anomaly that is not new and has been reported for a long time, but has only been talked about in relation to the judiciary of justice," the 38th said.

Justice said the Supreme Court's creation of an investigating panel was commendable, but "unusually cautious."

"We report the inquiry to be exhaustive, and we do not consider the inquiry to be exhaustive of the investigation," he said.

Opportunity

The 38th president said the need to address corruption in the judiciary was beyond the investigating panel's jurisdiction.

"The honorable members of the Court of Appeals are given the opportunity to show the public that there are no corrupt cases, so to speak," Justice said.

The suspended Bar of the Philippines joins the 38th president in their fervent desire to fight corruption in the judiciary through the use of the law. The call is to do so in a way that is "transparent," he said.

Wanted: patriotic leaders

IT IS A PRIVATE PROSECUTOR LINE OF THE spokesman of Gloria Macapagal Arroyo that the substance she faces in the Senate stems from the presidential candidate of many years.

It is hardly for our democratic project if we have a treasury of qualified and morally upright politicians who have no intention of evading themselves by leaving the public and law, but instead only have their rights as we have in being prepared to the contrary to do so, merely because a group of patriotic individuals to replace the kind of officials we find in the company of GMA.

As President, GMA used to write to many recent death has been ended but could be beyond redemption, along impossible down up to the country's international standing and probably putting future generations of our people at a political and economic disadvantage. It is not enough to have a GMA out of office in 2010 or even. Commensurate punishment should be meted out to her and her voters to serve as a lesson to future officials who might abuse the authority of their office.

The way our judicial system has been seen of it would mean, it is doubtful if the people can obtain relief solely by the legal route now in place. Better investment of moral, social and economic pressure in the form of widespread protest, by all segments of society—private, public, religious and business—is called for. If Philippine society is unable to tolerate the means of corruption that run down the system to its state, it does not deserve democratic rule and will serve to live from the savings of its justice and justice system.

In recent days it has become very interesting hearing to GMA's spokesman claiming how she longs for having peace in Mindanao after her stay at a Philippine SOGA with the MILF. He said that peace is another round of fighting. Not much different from the claims that her last term in the past when she has been aggressive in her own way of law.

Public auction of Tagaytay lands may be illegal

1. EXEMPTED FROM THE PROPERTY TAXES of Tagaytay City whose lands are scheduled for public auction on days 4 and 5, 2006, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 2006. They have the right of being their lands sold if they fail to pay their tax delinquency. To their mind, this is the law and they are not willing to pay it. This is a law, and the law is clearly illegal.

The "Source of Title" document Republic Act 1040 (Local Government Code of 1992) is the legal basis for the auction sale. The law took effect in January 1993, as such it applies only to lands that were not sold before the law. The law is not retroactive, so it does not apply to tax delinquencies for 1991 and prior years. The law applicable in this case is from around 1992, which was passed on June 1, 1994. This document should have been filed in the Office of the City Engineer. Its contents are not operative for the validity of the auction.

Under Sec. 279 of the 1992, and property tax in the month of April after five years from the date they become due are no longer subject to collection either by administrative or judicial proceeding. It appears that a notice of the delinquency filed in the Office of the City Engineer is not a valid basis for the auction sale. The law is not retroactive, so it does not apply to tax delinquencies for the years 1991 to 1992, when they legally became due. The law is not retroactive, so it does not apply to tax delinquencies for the years 1991 to 1992.

10. 2006, is hereby declared to be illegal.

The law requires the last payment to be paid before the sale or auction of the property or a valid portion thereof or any its necessary to satisfy the tax delinquency and interest on sale. This provision of the law is clearly illegal. In the case of the sale of the land in the property with an area of 10 hectares and a tax delinquency of 10 million. If only these amounts, even so, the law is not retroactive, so it does not apply to tax delinquencies for the years 1991 to 1992, when they legally became due. The law is not retroactive, so it does not apply to tax delinquencies for the years 1991 to 1992. The law is not retroactive, so it does not apply to tax delinquencies for the years 1991 to 1992.

It appears from the foregoing observations that the Source of Title document taken in this manner is voidable with many defects. Should the sale pass through without these defects, it is a matter of the importance of the substantive rights of the property owners. Public notice of the sale is not sufficient. The auction sale would be voidable if not nullified.

Tacloban's bid for cityhood causes word war

By Jay A. Gutierrez
Special Report

TACLOBAN CITY—TACLOBANITS had to become slightly affronted as city officials have agreed to a deal with the mayor, Atty. General, and Mayor Gen. Jovito Felilla.

Remondino has accused Felilla of dividing his administration's focus to get public support and join the ranks of highly urbanized cities in the country.

The mayor claimed the government was opposing the city's reclassification because the province would lose millions of pesos if its share from the increased revenue allocation (IRA) over the city is no longer under its jurisdiction.

Felilla has strongly denied Remondino's accusations, saying that was never due to talk in public about the issue.

"Taclobanites, I want you to be able to speak for or against the IRA bid of Tacloban. Neither am I making a house-to-house campaign like him," Felilla said.

Money matters

The amount of IRA share distributed to the local government units depends on its land area and population.

Remondino said that once the city becomes an IRAC, it would no longer be considered a part of Leyte, thus reducing the provincial government's IRA share by as much as P50 million, while Leyte receives about P700 million annually from the national government as its IRA share.

Felilla insisted that he would not stand against Tacloban's wish that he acknowledged that the province would indeed lose P50 million to IRAC share.

The amount, he said, would go to the care of the province and not to Tacloban.

Felilla belied the charge of his classification, saying that aside from the fact that it already met the requirements, it would help attract more investors.

Remondino is pushing for reclassification, saying that aside from the fact that it already met the requirements, it would help attract more investors.

Beas

Based on the 1995 Local Government Code, a city can be reclassified from an IRAC if it has a population of 250,000, as certified by the National Statistics Office, and an annual income of P100 million, as certified by the local treasury and Bureau of Local Finance.

Tacloban's population is now 217,770 with an annual income of P90 million.

In IRAC bid has the support of the Mayor Regional Development Council and the League of Cities of the Philippines. At present, the country has 22 IRACs.

Under Section 451 of the Local Government Code, only the President can declare a city highly urbanized.

However, the proclamation also provides that the bid must be ratified by the city council in a plebiscite to be held within 120 days after it is issued.

BAGONG DAY RALLY

Urban poor groups and left-wing militants joined the 9th Bagong Day parade with placards condemning a plan to change the city's IRAC status. The banner rebuffs are on course to corner the city's land problems, which the groups oppose. (Joyce or Page 8/2)

Kin of Ibaloi leader want John Hay named after him

By Debra Colton
Napier Northern Luzon

MANILA CITY—Descendants of a slain Ibaloi leader who stood up against the American colonial government after he was displaced from his land have asked the government to give him justice by naming the 550-hectare Camp John Hay after him.

The heirs of Mateo Canillo said the site of Camp John Hay was part of Canillo's landholding that was seized by the Americans in the early 1900s when Baguio was being established.

They stood their call as the city celebrated its 99th founding anniversary yesterday.

Antonio Canillo, son of the slain and spokesperson of the Ibalos-Candian and Bayang Group Foundation, said replacing John Hay's name was one of the ways to recognize Canillo's efforts in obtaining his rights in the land grabbed by the Americans.

"By naming the land after Mateo Canillo and building his monument on that land, the government, in a way would have symbolically redressed the injustices done to him and to the Ibaloi who have been victims of land grabbing," Antonio Canillo said.

He challenged city officials to support his family's case to reclaim the former American military post and recreation facility named after former US Secretary of State John Hay.

The area to use a tourism and recreational complex under the private firm Camp John Hay Development Corp.

Antonio presented the paper, "The Mateo Canillo and Baguio Group: a case study of the displacement of the native Ibaloi in Baguio City," during the Baguio Land Conference at the University of the Philippines (UP) Baguio Campus.

"The Baguio City program to celebrate its centennial as a chartered city in 2000," it would do good for the local government to have a sense of his post and to be reminded that the city was developed as the epitome of large-scale land grabbing of their lands," Antonio said.

The paper said the land area which Camp John Hay was built "was torn and taken, the private lands of Mateo Canillo and his ancestors before him."

"In fact, Mateo Canillo had already applied for land titles, some which he was issued. Private information is, in 1901, according to a title under the Spanish Royal Decree. When he, however, tried to register the land, he came up against the will of the American colonial government," Antonio said.

He said the land on which the Baguio City Hall, Baguio Central School, Mind Park, Northern Park, United States National Shrine, and the American School of Oriental Studies are located were also part of the Ibaloi land. These were also seized by the American colonial government, he said.

Prof. Ramon B. Irala, dean of the College of Social Sciences of UP-Baguio, said an official land document was being prepared by the American colonial government, but he said it was not possible to do so because of the lack of historical records.

He said the evidence may not necessarily mean that you give back the land entirely because there were already changes in the area since the time of the Ibaloi. There may be other forms of a historical record, he said.

"The government may not intend to do this, but it is not just what the principle should be," Antonio said.

He said the government should be able to find a way to give back the land to the Ibaloi, but he said it was not possible to do so because of the lack of historical records.

Antonio Canillo said when the family was trying to reclaim the land, the government was not willing to do so because of the lack of historical records.

land, he said.

The evidence, Antonio said, was that the government should recognize the Ibaloi as the indigenous people of Baguio who have rights and valid claims over ancestral lands.

They also urged the government to accept the justice demanded by the people and to identify appropriate mechanisms for reparations.

Antonio Canillo said that before the American colonial government developed Baguio into a chartered city, his family owned the land. It was a house to a number of Ibaloi clans whose traditional livelihoods were hunting and gathering, agriculture and pig raising.

Antonio said that when the Ibaloi, Candian and Bayang clans and their extended family groups, the said "land was grabbed, there were areas of open areas, but it was also clear which areas had been developed by the original owner and which were not."

"We used the land for growing rice, corn and other crops," Antonio said.

He said the land grabbing was done by the American colonial government, but he said it was not possible to do so because of the lack of historical records.

The American colonial government, he said, was the one that took the land from the Ibaloi.

Antonio said that when the Ibaloi, Candian and Bayang clans and their extended family groups, the said "land was grabbed, there were areas of open areas, but it was also clear which areas had been developed by the original owner and which were not."

Firm busted for using fake papers for visa applications

By Alison M. Lopez
THE NATIONAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION has issued a company for attaching fake documents to visa applications for US visas.
RBA Director Romeo Manalang said agents of the Bureau's Anti-Fraud and Computer Crime Division arrested Danilo Dela Cruz, 33, president and general manager of the firm.

Philippine Consulate, in his last office on Aug. 28.
Manalang said that apart from submitting fake marriage contracts and birth certificates to the US Embassy, Dela Cruz's firm was authorized to process visa applications.
A check with the Security and Exchange Commission showed that the company was banned to engage only in the trade, import and export of commodities.

The NBI earlier received a complaint from the US Embassy about the proliferation of forged documents attached to visa applications.
AFPOC Chief Vicente de Ocampo III said they began monitoring the company after learning that it was offering visa assistance services. An undercover in 2003 agent posed as a visa applicant and was told by Dela Cruz that she should pass herself off as married since it was difficult to single to get a US visa.

The agent was taken to pay Dela Cruz's office, located in Manila, and P500,000 was paid for application to approved.
The NBI later issued warrants for its US Embassy representatives. Fake marriage cermonies, birth certificates, bank statements and Bureau of Internal Revenue forms were found in the office.

Katich, who said he began offering visa assistance services in 2002, admitted NBI had not seen any records at the National Computer Office, adding that he thought the fake documents on them were in Manila.
"We would like to speak the public about this matter because they should just go to the US Embassy to apply for a visa or make sure the visa processing company is legitimate," Manalang said.

He said that they were still looking for Dela Cruz's brother, Dela, and his children Gerardo Dela, Delia Llanza, Gerardo and Palomino Katich who were also officers of the company.

Pressure mounts on Thai leader to quit

BANGKOK, THAILAND—PROTESTERS demanding Prime Minister Samak Sundaravej's resignation roared on Monday to target the government's water supply and cause more disruption to travelers to force him from office after an emergency parliamentary debate failed to resolve Thailand's political crisis.

Samak continued an official three-day trip to Japan starting Tuesday, the Foreign Ministry said, as thousands of protesters continued to march on the grounds of his official residence to force him to resign. They have refused to leave and Samak must delay an attempt to leave Monday without a solution.

Samak called a special joint session of Parliament that lasted 21 hours and ended only Monday without a solution. "We are very disappointed that Thailand's parliament could not solve this crisis," said Samak Sundaravej, a leader of the People's Alliance for Democracy, which is organizing the protests. "We have no choice now but to put more pressure on the government."

Allegations of inappropriate pressure from former cabinet officials to sack off water and electricity to certain state officials and force them to resign have also been a factor in the crisis.

"The top water of the national police headquarters and at provincial administration of that will be cut off starting Tuesday," said Samak Sundaravej, leader of the ruling Thai Rak Petchra party, as he departed for Japan.

Thousands of employees from the state Railways of Thailand continued a strike that halted service on Monday on 50 routes from cutting off fuel supply to the rail workers and water supply to the control and signaling.

Thailand's King Bhumibol, 82, has urged Samak to resign. More than half of the 470 legislators scheduled to meet Monday were also meeting.

There was no schedule for the next session, which has been disrupted since the crisis started on Friday.

Police moved in on Monday morning to clear the area, but protesters refused to leave, saying that the government is responsible for the situation.

Olmert turmoil delays Israel-Palestinian peace effort

JERUSALEM—ISRAELI AND PALESTINIAN officials on Sunday placed doubt on the prospect of any immediate peace agreement as Ehud Olmert, the discredited prime minister of Israel, left his post for a vacation.

Mark Regev, a spokesman for Olmert, said "Olmert is leaving the government for a vacation and will not be involved in the peace process."

Olmert met here on Sunday with the Palestinian president, Mahmoud Abbas, and the newspaper Haaretz reported that Olmert had been pressing Abbas to agree to a joint document of intent to start peace talks.

Such a deal, a senior Palestinian official said, would be a major step in the peace process.

But it was not clear if the new Israeli government would be able to do so.

Olmert, who is being forced from office by a corruption investigation, has pledged to resign once he is elected.

Pacquiao: Beware of the intangibles

FRIDAY FIGHTER FUMBLE: HAD and scored when he scored that Manny Pacquiao. "Gosh, similar, will be stronger and faster than the last Oscar De La Hoya."

There's no reason to doubt Mr. Pacquiao. He's a truly sound fighter, inside the belt. The boxing world's top 10 is in the ring right now.

Pacquiao may indeed have a point in deciding that the Golden Boy does not longer pull the strings.

De La Hoya, as expected, readily brushed off the Pacquiao jab in his camp. "I'm not worried about this fight."

De La Hoya's age-related deficiencies, didn't Pacquiao ever mention Pacquiao's lack of defense?

This fight is not about Pacquiao's ability to duck and dodge the fight. He has more than proven this recently. He's not, in fact, just the same old fight.

But, being a fighter of spirit and guts, one thing he can't do is duck. He'll fight for the rest of his life and will not let the number of punches he's expected to receive when he appears off with De La Hoya at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas on Oct. 11.

Pacquiao's defense is not to be quick to deny that the Pacquiao's momentum, his speed, his offense, should be considered the best and most likely to win for whatever defense Pacquiao has.

Revised Prediction

Yes, the man who Pacquiao named a big one for the fight is not the man who he's named for the fight. He's not the man who he's named for the fight.

It is not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole. It's not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole. It's not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole.

to his fight on fight night. "I'm not worried about this fight."

But, as the man who he's named for the fight is not the man who he's named for the fight, he's not the man who he's named for the fight.

It is not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole. It's not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole. It's not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole.

And that's the fact that the man who he's named for the fight is not the man who he's named for the fight. He's not the man who he's named for the fight.

All right, Pacquiao could reduce his chances of losing the fight by not being as quick as he is in the ring.

It is not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole. It's not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole. It's not a bad idea to look at the fight as a whole.

Peso falls to 12-month low of 46.29 to $1

Traders cite strengthening dollar, rising crude prices

By Orla C. Dominga

THE PESO YESTERDAY SLID TO THE 46 LEVEL, TO HIT A 12-MONTH LOW AGAINST THE DOLLAR DUE TO A FRESH SPURD IN GLOBAL OIL PRICES AND THE STRENGTHENING OF THE GREENBACK AGAINST MAJOR CURRENCIES.

The local currency closed at 46.29 to the dollar, its lowest since the late May low of 46.30, as traders cite the strengthening of the dollar against the euro and the Japanese yen, then there is the weakening of the British pound and the euro against the US dollar, "it said."

Market news referring to a shift in investor appetite to the yen, the recovery of Asia's sluggish economy, given the weakening of the currencies of emerging markets in the region.

The Japanese currency yesterday appreciated by nearly 1 percent to 137.7 yen to the dollar.

Gov't bent on Petron, PNOG-EC sale

THE GOVERNMENT IS FIRM MORE ON PRIVATIZING SHARES IN PETRON CORP. AND PNOG EXPLORATION CORP. TO SUPPORT ECONOMIC GROWTH, GIVEN THE COUNTRY'S SLUGGISH ECONOMIC GROWTH IN THE FIRST QUARTER, FINANCE SECRETARY MARGARITO LERIO SAID.

There are still questions on the viability of a recent landmark event that for every percentage point decline in gross domestic product in a given year, the economy would decline by 2.5 billion pesos, he said. The Department of Finance has not lowered its revenue target.
